Dear Peter,

Herewith are our results from the automated H_2S cross-check.
From our telephone conversation we obviously have more work to do, but probably not on the reagents.

I have ordered the distillation head parts and we will test that system as soon as practical after delivery of the glassware. Meanwhile, one thought that occurred to me was should we try the analysis of smoke by standard addition to compare with the normal method? This might give us a clue about distillation conditions and the lack of our agreement on cigarette deliveries.

Yours sincerely,

M. COLEMAN
