

I do not think "a broad literature survey should suffice to disprove the hypothesis" although it is just possible it might substantiate it (Reason: lack of knowledge of smolic). In short I feel the survey may be so superficial as to be of little use. By the way I don't think Prontool is an antibiotic. *

* This is a ^{SYNTHETIC} ~~synthetic~~ ^{PT} antibiotic agent, rather than

105384572