Noxious Earth Energies Affecting Our Health

Noxious earth energies are not visible – but they still have an effect on a person’s body, in a similar way to X-rays - and the way that radio waves (also not seen) affect a radio or television.

When a person spends a considerable time in the zones of influence of such energies their body becomes weakened – and more susceptible to illness.

European Physicians have found that treatments often become effective only when the influence of such zones is identified and remedial steps taken to avoid such influences. Case histories are included in the ‘supporting documentation’.

Sleeping or sitting in these zones led to health problems during pregnancy, and other problems including sudden infant death, bed wetting, unwanted behaviour, poor school performance, migraine, depression, encephalitis, heart problems, and cancer.

Remedial action is simple, effective, and inexpensive. Training is easy and cheap.

Noxious Earth Energies Affecting Our Health

Understanding Noxious Energies
There are three main types of noxious energies:

1) Subteranean water veins: These may be at great depth and have little flow, but still have a deleterious effect. They seem to manifest in a vertical band above the vein.

2) ‘Curry Grid Lines’: First identified by Dr Manfred Curry, MD, flowing in NW-SE and NE-SW directions, of varying strengths, manifesting in vertical grid lines about 10 feet / 3 metres apart, and having the same strength at basement or penthouse level.

3) Electro-Magnetic Interference: especially in the area of transformers and cathode ray tubes (CRT) as found in television sets and computer screens, and in any proximity to radio transmission (such as a cell phone). These manifest in radiation which observes the law of inverse squares – the strength weakens with distance from the source. This interference is also found with the ground return systems of electrical supply systems and in proximity to high power transmission lines.

The most deleterious effects occur over water veins, at Curry Grid junctions, and at combinations of water vein and Curry Grid energies – especially when any of these is of a high strength.

Operation of Noxious Energies
The human body is an ‘energy body’ – and each cell has an energetic link to the rest of a body; when subjected to a different high energy field (including X-rays), this link becomes weakened, and organization within the cell depreciates.

This results in the cells and the body becoming more susceptible to influences such as viruses and non-beneficial bacteria, so enabling illness to manifest. Severe interference can lead to cancer developing.

Location of Noxious Energies
Because noxious energies have such a large effect on the human body, this effect can be utilized to determine if a person is being so effected.

Experiment:

1) First hold your hands body width apart, palms open and facing each other; now gradually bring your palms closer together. Be aware of any slight resistance as they become closer to each other – you are feeling your own aura.

2) Now switch on a TV or computer having a CRT, and stand to one side and about three feet (one metre) in front of it. Think, asking your Heart, “Is there an energy field here that has a deleterious effect on any part of my body?” and move the open palm of one of your hands towards the area in front of the CRT. Did you feel a slight resistance, similar to ‘thickening of the air’, as your hand moved within the field of influence of the CRT?

3) Repeat this experiment standing further away from the CRT, and more to the side. You will probably feel this same resistance, but at a lower level.

How did this work? The CRT is focussing a somewhat funnel shaped energy field in front of the screen. Your thought ‘tuned your mind’ to the ‘vibrational pattern’ of this field. Your Heart is the prime controller of your human being-ness – and your major link to your Intuition. Your Heart-Mind-Brain team co-ordinated with your nervous-muscular system to give you a signal – the feeling in the palm of your hand.
Alternative Nervous-Muscular Signals

You formulate a question in your logical mind, and can define the meaning of various signals to be shown by your nervous-muscular system. These questions should be formed so as to be clear, simple, and precise, and to get YES or NO replies.

Each of the signals suggested here have their strengths and weaknesses, being suitable under different conditions. There are others that are favoured by different people, and you can design your own.

1) Hand Aura: This is first part of the experiment above – you felt the aura between your hands. You can define that this aura remains for YES, and disappears to signal NO. Do not worry – it will not go very far away!

2) Body Sway: You stand up, and your body sways forward for YES – or backwards for NO. The greater the movement, the stronger the signal – and the more decisive is the YES or NO. This may have happened to you many times before, when you met someone new – you moved forward if attracted, or backwards if your auras were not compatible.

3) Eye Blinks: One blink YES, two blinks NO, three blinks meaning that the question was not understood, or should not have been asked, or that the answer was not available at this time.

4) Tongue Position: Hold your tongue midway between the floor and roof of your mouth; if it rises to the roof it indicates YES, if it drops to the floor of your mouth the signal is NO. Big advantage is that nobody else knows that you are asking a question of your Intuition.

Experiment:

Choose one method of signalling that appeals to you, and practice some simple questions to which you know the answer, such as “Is today [Monday]?” (or other day). “Am I male?” “Am I female?” “Do I like [Ice Cream]?” (or broccoli, coffee, peanut butter) “Do I now live in [name of town]?” (try different names).

Now repeat this with the other signalling methods. Which method gave you the most correct answers?

Are Noxious Energies Affecting You?

Ask your Heart! Use any of the methods that you found to be suitable for your questioning. If so, ask your Heart “Are Noxious energies troubling me when I sleep?” “… when I sit in my favourite chair?” or “… when I sit at my office desk?” – remembering that you could be subjected to these energies in more than one place. Asking your Heart helps to overcome your ego, which tends to give you answers that you want to get!

If you have troubled sleep, get cramps, wake up tired, or feel weakened when in a certain place for any length of time, this could be an indication that you are in a zone of noxious energies.

If a young child is always avoiding a section of the crib, it is highly probable that the child is endeavouring to escape from such noxious energies. Adults may also move during sleep to avoid such energies in bed.

Locating Noxious Energies

If you can feel this energy with your hands, as in the first experiment, be sure that the organs within your body that find this energy to be detrimental will be even more sensitive to the energy.

One way to check if your bed or chair is in a zone of noxious energy is to use this procedure, keeping a thought of ‘noxious energy’ in your Heart-Mind-Brain team, and feel for any changes ‘in the air’ around your bed or chair.

Another way is to stand at the foot of your bed, or in front of your chair (home or office), and ask your Heart “Is there any energy zone on any part of my bed (or chair) that is noxious to me?”

You can also quantify any of these noxious energies, by asking “Is this noxious energy causing serious illness to me?” remembering that although your body may have reserves to overcome the effect, those reserves are not limitless - so the noxious energy may have a bad effect that worsens as time progresses.

If you get a YES signal, then imagine that your bed or chair is in another position, and repeat the question for that location. Imagine different locations until you find one that is free of noxious energy.

The main action so taken by an individual to avoid such energies is to move the bed or chair to a new location. A competent energy worker can use alternative methods to eliminate these energies.
What you have been doing – accessing your Intuition by getting signals from your nervous-muscular system, is called radiesthesia, deviceless-dowsing, or kinesiology; people apply different labels, often according to the location and accepted terminology. If you feel that you are being affected by noxious energies (or are not sure, or lack confidence in your ability to so access your Intuition) you can call for the help of an experienced investigator – called a Dowser in most English speaking countries. The cost of such services is quite small – and miniscule compared to the cost of treatment should these energies be causing you illness; this is especially so when the cost of drugs is coupled with loss of time when attending the offices of physicians and taking absence from work.

The Role of the Physician
Physicians have been well trained over many years to recognize different illnesses – but often the evidence is not clear, so they have to use their Intuition to decide on suitable treatments. The Intuitive methods described above may help in this regard, since when with a patient their own body energies are aware of those of the patient, and can liaise with the energies of the patient to diagnose the sickness and advise on suitable remedies.

As mentioned in Käthe Bachler’s book (see extracts in ‘supporting documentation’) physicians frequently found that cures which were generally effective failed with certain patients. The cause of such failure was often found to be the deleterious effect of noxious energies – and when action was taken to avoid such energies, then the cures became effective.

The physician can easily question his (or her) own Heart as to whether noxious energies are preventing healing for a particular patient – and if so, advise that an experienced Dowser be asked to examine the home of the patient.

The Role of Health Care Authorities
1. To appreciate that human beings are more than just the physical body – they are ‘Energy Beings’, and are affected by noxious energies that are not visible in the physical dimension.
2. To encourage the consideration of the effects of noxious energies by Health Care providers.
3. To recognize that identification of such energies, coupled with the needed action for avoidance, can improve healing whilst at same time reducing costs of medication and lowering losses of productivity.
4. To incorporate the identification and avoidance procedures within the Health Care system, including funding for the training of Dowsers and payment for work done.
5. To include Energy Healers of various descriptions with the Health Care system, providing that they have had adequate training and have a proven track record.
6. To so improve the cost benefit ratios of money expended for Health Care.

Training of Competent Dowsers
There are many competent Dowsers in British Columbia – the oldest Dowsing Society in Canada is the Canadian Society of Questers, which was started in the province and has chapters in a number of cities. About 90% of people can learn to Dowse – and can be trained to the level required for noxious earth energies in a one day course.

At this level they will be able to locate zones of interference, identify the type of energy, and take remedial action to prevent further interference from the noxious energies.

I have taught many people to use ‘Intuition Technology’ (my term to describe Dowsing more accurately) including to become instructors. A good size for a one day workshop would be about 24 people, with a cost of about $50 per person to include tools and manuals for later use. The rental for the teaching space, accommodation and travel expenses would be extra – probably adding $25 per student for this size of class. John Living.
Supporting Documentation

The recognition and correction of geopathic disturbances of sleep, health, and school performance was carefully researched by Käthe Bachler of Austria on more than 11,000 people in over 3,000 apartments, houses, and work places in 14 countries, and described with illustrations in her book ‘Earth Radiation’.

The English version has long been ‘out of print’, and copies have been selling on Ebay for US$90. This book is now being republished by Trafford Publications of Victoria, and will be available at an affordable price.

These extracts are reproduced with the permission of the copyright holder, and may be further reproduced.

Maps have been made in Germany and in Russia of areas with high geopathic energies and independently compared with maps showing homes where cancer patients lived; there was almost complete correlation.

“Noxious earth energies do not necessarily cause cancer; but in all cases of cancer noxious earth energies are found to be a major contributing factor”.

This book is the classic record of the identification and location of energies from the earth which are noxious to human beings and others.

Many of the results are attested by medical doctors who found that cures were only effective after exposure to noxious earth energies was eliminated. Cases are quoted which include the use of these techniques by physicians for their own health.

These illustrations are accompanied by records of the illnesses resulting from sleeping, or sitting for a long time, in the energy fields - and how great improvement in health occurred when the location of beds, school seats, etc., were moved.

Sections of road subject to a high rate if accidents have been found to be subject to these noxious earth energies; it is suggested that these energies distract drivers, so leading to collisions. The most competent Dowsers can change these energies into becoming beneficial – just a few hours work. The cost (only for time and travel) is tiny compared to the enormous expense of vehicle damage – and can save lives and injuries.

Several practicing physicians are aware of the value of radiesthesia and use it in their practice:

Arnold Mannlicher, M.D. (Salzburg) wrote in 1949:

"Medical radiesthesia has become of infinite value to me within the past seventeen years.
It has enabled me to achieve diagnostic and therapeutic results which I had never hoped for before".

The chief of pediatric services in Bayreuth, Germany, Karl Beck, M.D., wrote that he observed a patient, released as recovered from the hospital, to become sick again immediately after returning home.

He examined her living quarters with a dowsing rod and found zones of disturbance. When an EKG was administered in her house, she showed extra systolic activity.

The medical director of the Ringberg Clinic, Joseph Issel, M.D., emphasizes in a letter to his medical colleagues:

"Above certain and well-defined areas, the human organism can become seriously affected if he stays there for any length of time. Eventually he will become ill. A sensitive person can ascertain these areas with the use of a dowsing rod.

We know about so many natural phenomena it is not only our right, but rather our duty to inform our patients of them so as to help them to eliminate or at least avoid their dangers."
Case# 201. School psychologist was puzzled.
During the first and second year of the child's life, his development seemed retarded, and he did not talk at all.
During the third to sixth year of life, the child was classified as mentally retarded.
The school psychologist's judgement was "This child needs to be put into a school for the handicapped."
Through sheer coincidence, the child's bed was moved - and suddenly all the effort and care of his intelligent mother brought measurable success.
The child progressed in all areas of his life.
He was put into a regular grammar school on a trial basis. To everyone's surprise, he came home with 'Good' on his first report card.

Case# 81. Migraine
The couple lived in a room for 18 months. He felt constantly 'under the weather'. She suffered from severe migraines, insomnia, and many other complaints.
A letter from them reported rapid improvement as soon as their bed was moved to another place.

Case# 510. Cramps in the legs
Mrs. R. suffered from cramps in the legs almost every night, and also from insomnia, duodenal ulcer, and phlebitis.
Four months after moving her bed she wrote: "What a blessing to be able to sleep through the night. Ever since I rearranged the bed, I have had neither pains nor cramps in the legs."

Case# 565. Stomach cancer
was the cause of death of Mr. L. three years after he moved into this house; his son's bed is located exactly beneath his on the floor below - he too suffers from severe stomach ailments, swelling of the lymph nodes, and abscesses over much of his body. The doctor had tried to help for years, but to no avail, and a thorough examination in the hospital did not shed light on the disease.
Only after the bed was moved could the medication work and the patient became well.

Case# 1367. Physician had a gall bladder operation.
Ever since she moved to her present sleeping place she had been ill. She suffered from pain and anxiety attacks at night in bed. Everywhere else she seemed to sleep well.
She changed the bed immediately - and slept better the very first night.
"I don't understand why conventional medicine does not acknowledge the value of dowsing. It seems to me they ought to be grateful for the help."
Case# 264. Anita, 10 years old, told me: “I have been sleeping in this room for the past year. I sleep poorly, I am so tired in the morning, and I have headaches most of the time”.
Change of bed! After only three days she reports happily: “Now I sleep very well and feel well. And I am so happy, because I am finally warm in bed. Before my bed was moved, I was always so cold in bed”.

Case# 1507b. Ingebord had two places for doing homework.
Place 1 does not feel well, short concentration span. Place 2 feels well and cheerful, does extra work for credit.

Case# 164. After her grandfather's death (he had died six months earlier from lung cancer), Lotte was given the privilege of sleeping in her grandfather's old bed.
She immediately lost her appetite, suffered from headaches, had trouble sleeping and lost many days from school.
As soon as the bed was moved to another location, she felt better again.

Case# 987. Mr. LL has multiple sclerosis.
Mrs. H. from Salzburg asked for an examination. Afterwards I asked her which bed her husband was sleeping in.
She said: “In this one, and pointed to bed II. I looked surprised and she explained that he had been sleeping in bed I for 7 years and that they had changed beds only two weeks ago.
I recommended a different place.

Case# 610. Premature birth.
Gall bladder, cramps, and pain in the feet, premature delivery.
The doctor believed that without the appropriate measures, the foetus would have been aborted.
The dowser said: “The child wanted to flee from the uterus.”
The child was born after 6½ months of pregnancy, cried most of the time, had convulsions, was restless.
The mother had to get up at night as often as 20 times to quiet the baby.
After the bed was moved to another place, there was improvement.

Case# 660. The ten-month-old baby was tied to his crib.
The parents were afraid he might fall out of bed, because he stood up again and again.
When in his playpen, he only occupied the half which was ‘free of radiation’, never the half above the Curry Line.
The father finally phoned me: “Since we moved the bed, we have had no problem with his sleeping and he is healthy and robust.”
